The sailing season is properly upon us. How do we know? Because, after letting all the other classes get a month's start, the Troys actually started racing in May. Their first race was on Saturday 6th May and so the start line was somewhat more crowded than in April, there will be a few more words exchanged on the water, and a few more sailors will discover whether they can bring back into mind all those things that have dropped to the bottom of their consciousness since the last race and the Up Anchor Dinner all those months ago. For those not on the water, the Club terrace is the perfect place from which to watch. And the bar is open throughout. We shall look forward to seeing you there.

As the season gets underway, this is an appropriate time to thank all those who support the racing activities in Fowey: the POFROC Committee, those organising and crewing the safety boats, the Harbour Master and the Harbour Patrol, Race Officers, and many others. We thank them all.

Please see the Club website for full sailing details. Photographers especially take note: there will be excellent opportunities for new photos to grace next year's Club calendar!

Seasonal Call For Volunteers. Warm thanks to all those who are already helping with Club activities. Now we would like more volunteers, please, to help with the various activities in the Club, and with the tasks which come with getting ready for the new season. We especially need volunteers for our Safety Boat during the season and Regatta Week. If you are willing and able to join in, please let the office know.

Join us at welcome hour in the Club every Friday 6.00 – 7.30 pm for a relaxed and convivial get together for members and guests
